You say that your adventures have found you thousands of parsecs from home, stranded on an alien world, surrounded by strange beings with an unfamiliar culture, half-starved from the rigours of interstellar travel and desperate to find any place you can sit down, relax, and trade what you hope is valid local currency for something to fill the gnawing pit of hunger that's become of your insides?

We've been there, and we want to help.

Welcome to the Guide.

Specifically, this is the 2009 Edition of the Diner's Guide to Anthrocon, that which we sincerely hope is the only resource you'll need to not just survive but thrive during your time in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, U.S.A., Earth, Sol, Milky Way. Within, you'll find a complete listing of restaurants, eateries, and various vendors of proper potables, sorted alphabetically within categories of cuisine. For early every single listing, we've included a phone number, hours of operation (as of the time of publication, subject to change, natch - yr. ed.), street address, a unique number, and a grid location. These latter two should make everything simple to find on the labelled map at the centre of the booklet.

Furthermore, some entries have graphical symbols before the name of the business indicating special information:

 means the restaurant offers delivery, useful if your ship is refueling.

 means the restaurant is wholly vegetarian (take note, herbivores!)

▼ means the bar is known for being gay-friendly... 'nuff said.

At the very end of the booklet is a list of convenience stores and other retail locations which offer non-food goods. The other side of this page has a map of the unique area known to the natives as "The Strip".

Best of luck, good travels, bon appétit... and for your own sake, don't forget to bring this Guide with you.
